Let's Start!

Writing Spot: Sally visits a very special place in Boston.

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about people's jobs and places of work in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- What does a "special" place mean?
- Can you think of a special place to visit where you live?

Can Do Statements

- I can write about places and attractions in a city.
- I can describe places.
- I can write a short text.

Let's Explore!

Sally writes a blog about a special place in Boston.

* "Special" means different in a positive way.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

The Beauty of Boston Harbor

Recently, I went on a tour of Boston's Harbor islands. What an amazing experience! I boarded a little, black bus in the center of town early Saturday morning and headed for the ferry terminal. After a 30-minute ferry ride, we landed on Spectacle Island. Our friendly young guide led us on a tour of a Civil War-era fort and historic lighthouses.

It was interesting to learn about early European settlements in the area. After lunch, our group hiked the lush, wide trails and attended an interesting information session on the wetland and aquatic wildlife in the area. The speaker also talked about the Natural Heritage Program that lists six rare species that live within this famous, American park.

I decided to bring my new camping equipment and camp under the stars. Unfortunately, it started to rain in the middle of the night. I didn't realize that I pitched my tent in a small creek bed. I woke up in the morning in a wet sleeping bag! It was a soggy mess.

Let's Practice!

What comes first? Time to practice the order of adjectives.

The Order of Adjectives

When you describe a person, place or thing using more than one adjective, there is an order that you must follow.

Look at the table below.

Opinion	pretty	lovely	friendly
Size	little	enormous	tiny
Shape	square	round	oval
Age		old	young
Color	blue	pink	grey
Origin	Spanish	Japanese	Italian
Material	clay	silver	leather
Noun	statue	mirror	guide

You don't need to use commas between each adjective when they follow this order.

Examples:

- Our friendly young Italian guide took us on a tour.
- After lunch, our group hiked the lush, wide trails and attended an interesting information session.
